MEMORY SUNDAY: AN ALZHEIMER'S & CAREGIVING AWARENESS CAMPAIGN FOR AFRICAN AMERICAN CHURCHES

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The National Brain Health Center for African-Americans is implementing Memory Sunday: An Alzheimer's & Caregiving Awareness Campaign for African American Churches on the second Sunday of June.

The Book of Alzheimer's for African American Congregations and the concepts of Memory Sunday were originally developed by the African American Dementia Outreach Partnership (AADOP) at the University of Kentucky's Sanders-Brown Center on Aging. The University of Kentucky, Sanders-Brown Center granted permission to The Balm In Gilead to adapt and utilize all materials related to Memory Sunday campaign, including the Book of Alzheimer's for African American Churches. Permission is granted to adapt this initiative, designed as a local initiative in the State of Kentucky, for a national Alzheimer's awareness campaign targeting African Americans across the United States.

The Balm In Gilead wishes to acknowledge the University of Kentucky, Sanders-Brown Center on Aging as the developers of the original Book of Alzheimer's and the development of Memory Sunday as a local effort in the State of Kentucky. Further, The Balm In Gilead wishes to thank the University of Kentucky, Sanders-Brown Center for its collaborative partnership to support the advancement and fulfillment of mutual goals related to Alzheimer's Disease and cognitive health issues among African Americans. The Balm In Gilead also wishes to thank all persons that contributed to the original guide and all of its success thus far.

As we enter this new season of great opportunities for new partnerships and collaborations to increase awareness in the African American community about Alzheimer's disease and other dementias, we wish to acknowledge the Center for Outreach in Alzheimer's Aging and Community Health at North Carolina A&T State University, the Alzheimer's Association, US Against Alzheimer's, the National Human Genome Center at Howard University, CDC Healthy Brain Initiative and all congregations who are committed to becoming a beacon of light that shines bright for Alzheimer's awareness; compassionate care for those living with the disease; and their caregivers.

The Balm In Gilead's National Brain Health Center for African Americans (NBHCAA), is the new home for The Book of Alzheimer's for African American Congregations, Memory Sunday and all related materials. The National Brain Health Center for African Americans (NBHCAA) is a training institute and online resource center designed to raise awareness of the issues of cognitive health among African Americans by working through existing networks of faith-based health awareness ministries/programs and by establishing new collaborations with research institutions and organizations such as the National Black Nurses Association, National Medical Association, AARP and others.

The Balm In Gilead invites all organizations and individuals who desire to join our efforts to contact us at info@balmingilead.org.

Overview of National Memory Sunday Campaign

June 11, 2017 is MEMORY SUNDAY

WHAT IS MEMORY SUNDAY?

Memory Sunday, the second Sunday in June, is a designated Sunday within congregations serving African Americans that provides education on Alzheimer's: prevention, treatment, research studies and caregiving.

Purpose

The purpose of Memory Sunday is to bring national attention to the tremendous burden that Alzheimer's and other Dementias are having on the African American community. Memory Sunday will utilize the power and influence of the African American pulpit to bring awareness and to distribute the facts about Alzheimer's; encourage participation in clinical studies; and to support persons living with Alzheimer's and their caregivers.

Memory Sunday promotes national mobilization and education of faith communities to take a greater role in increasing the awareness and understanding of Alzheimer's, supporting persons living with Alzheimer's, and their caregivers.

MEMORY SCREENINGS

Why do we need memory screenings?

Many Americans dismiss the warning signs of Alzheimer's, believing that these symptoms are a normal part of aging. This is of even greater concern for African Americans, who are two times more likely to develop late-onset Alzheimer's disease than whites and less likely to have a diagnosis of their condition, resulting in less time for treatment and planning. This increases the importance for families and faith leaders to be able to recognize the early cognitive symptoms. There has been a growing interest in screenings for memory problems. The proposed answer is to screen for memory dysfunction. One of the main reasons in favor of memory screening is that there are serious deficiencies in the healthcare systems' ability to recognize dementia as noted by the American Geriatric Society. With limited access and lower utilization of healthcare, faith leaders and churches can help address the issues of Alzheimer's disease and dementia in their congregations and communities by providing "memory screenings".

What is a memory screening?

Memory screening instruments, based on the method used can be completed in as little as five minutes. These self-administered memory assessments can be done in your church and help identify early signs of cognitive decline and support earlier diagnosis and treatment by your physician. A memory screening is a safe, cost efficient intervention that can assess healthy cognitive function, promote successful aging and when indicated, direct individuals to appropriate clinical resources if screen indicates changes or decline in a person's memory.

Early signs of cognitive and brain dysfunction

Memory loss

Misplacing items and forgetting recently learned information, conversations, names, etc.

Language problems

Trouble finding words

Disorientation to time

Forgetting the day of the week or the date

Impaired sense of direction

Getting lost in a familiar place

Changes in personality or mood

Becoming confused, suspicious, or anxious

Executive impairment

Difficulties with decision-making, using poor judgement or impaired organizational skills

Types of Memory Screens

Mini-cog 3 Assessment

One type of memory screening for older adults is the Mini-Cog. This type of memory screen is a three-minute test that can demonstrate the detection of cognitive impairment in mature adults with 80 % accuracy. These memory screening exams can be used effectively after a brief training in your congregation and community. It consists of two components, a three-item recall test for memory and a simply scored clock-drawing test. (See examples below)

Possible Memory Decline

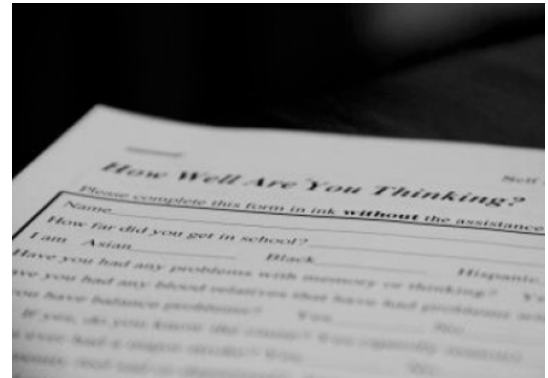

Normal Memory Recall

SAGE-15 Memory Screening Tool

Another type of memory screening is a Self-Administered Geo-Cognitive Examination (SAGE) which is a 15 question written exam used for early detection of mild cognitive impairment in older adults with 80 % accuracy. While the test does not diagnose problems like Alzheimer's, it does allow individuals to get a baseline of cognitive function which they can use to assess their memory over time and report changes to their doctor or loved ones.

What do I do if something is wrong?

If the memory screening tool suggests there is a concern regarding your memory, you should follow up with your primary doctor to discuss the results. Handouts to complete either the mini-Cog or the SAGE can be found at www.balmingilead.org/memorysunday as well as other helpful information and resources.

Early detection is important and provides a better chance of benefiting from treatment, more time to plan for the future, reduced anxiety about unknown problems, and can increase chances of participating in clinical trials and helping to advance research.

CREATING A CAREGIVERS' RETREAT

What can churches do for caregivers?

The faith community can play a major role in the lives of caregivers. Churches might identify health care providers and special volunteers to begin education programs and support services that aid the caregiver. They might also consider the following:

- Host support groups and other educational events
- Develop a church respite program
- Offer alternative shorter services or home-visits to accommodate patient and caregivers
- Develop an adult day care program, if needed
- Utilize the services of early stage persons to keep them involved in church activities
- Encourage retired nurses
- Encourage congregation to adopt a healthier life style
- Encourage church leaders to learn about Alzheimer's disease and dementia
- Plan and host retreats for caregivers
- Build a relationship with the local Alzheimer's Association

As an example, in North Carolina, the Center for Outreach in Alzheimer's, Aging, and Community Health (COAACH) at North Carolina A&T State University, assists congregations in continuing to lead the way to better healthcare practices and access to resources. The Center provides a monthly Lunch and Learn series and Support Group activities in which community participants gain valuable information and tools to assist with their caregiving responsibilities. COAACH also hosts an annually caregiver education conference that provides experts on topics that are essential to caregivers. The conference increases caregiver knowledge and equips caregivers with tools that assist caregivers in their caregiving duties.

COAACH conducts research on families affected by Alzheimer's. To learn more about this work, visit www.coaachhealth.org or call 888-248-2808.

CENTER FOR OUTREACH
IN ALZHEIMER'S, AGING
& COMMUNITY HEALTH

Creating a Caregivers' Retreat

A major first step for churches might be to host a “Caregivers Retreat” in which caregivers can have the opportunity to take a break from their caregiving duties. Faith-based institutions can provide relief to congregants who are caregivers by providing respite, a short period of rest that will not only rejuvenate their mind but also revitalize caregivers’ spiritual wellbeing. This could be an event held at the church or other community venues. The word “retreat” does not necessarily mean leaving the walls of the church. Resources can be provided to create a relaxing and informative get-away for caregivers. For example, there may be church members or members in the community who have experience in gardening, cooking, massage therapy, and would be willing to donate to their church family. The retreat could be an evening, half-day, one day, or weekend event. The occasion should provide an opportunity for caregivers to have conversations with liked-minded people who understand what the caregiver is experiencing. It does not have to be grand to be great and sometimes the simplest gesture can bring the greatest reward.

Things to consider when planning a retreat for caregivers

- Engage sponsors (home health agencies, senior service providers)
- Use volunteers or church food ministry to provide refreshments
- Advertise the event throughout the community
- Include group discussion activities (breakout sessions by age, role, or topics)
- Share caregiving tips about meal preparation
- Provide respite so the caregiver can focus
- Invite speakers or use church members with expertise in areas such as the following areas:
 - Alzheimer’s disease awareness
 - Elder care law
 - Financial planning
 - Caregiving techniques
 - Healthy Living for the Caregiver
 - Community resources
 - Diabetes and Alzheimer’s
 - Healthy Eating
 - Oral Health Care
 - Understanding difficult behaviors in Alzheimer’s

Get feedback about the event from participants to make sure their needs and concerns are being addressed. This keeps the church engaged and responsive to the needs of the community.

What the congregation can do?

- Ask family members how they and their loved one are doing regularly
- Offer to assist the family to get the person ready for worship services or help arrange transportation
- Express willingness to spend time with the person so family members can run errands or take a break
- Help provide worship services at the family's home when they can no longer attend in person
- Share recordings of the service with the family if they cannot attend
- Send thinking of you notes and cards; include bulletins and newsletters from your place of worship to help the family
- Be a willing listener
- Provide ongoing prayer support for the person with Alzheimer's and his or her family members

CAREGIVERS – CREATING A SUPPORT SYSTEM

It takes a village....

Far too often caregivers struggle when faced with the many challenges they encounter while providing care for a loved one. Many African American caregivers feel that they are alone; others experience burnout, while many others succumb to personal illnesses due to increased stress and exhaustion.

A good support system with family members, friends, community and faith based organizations, coupled with strategic planning can make all the difference in managing stress when caring for a loved one with cognitive impairment (Alzheimer's disease, memory loss). A good support system not only provides access to help and services beneficial to the person with dementia, but is key to providing the assistance caregivers need.

Financial Resources & Tools

Every day in America, millions of people are stepping into the role of caregiver for their loved ones and family members. This role can be challenging and create a burden on your finances and resources.

Being prepared and having an understanding of the resources available to those living with cognitive health issues and their families is essential to ensure financial security and stability.

Budgeting & Financial Planning

“Financial Steps for Caregivers: What You Need to Know About Protecting Your Money and Retirement” is a great resource that provides information and tips to caregivers on how understanding the cost of caregiving and how to plan for it in with a realistic approach. For more information about financial planning visit: www.wiserwomen.org

Covering the Cost of Care & Treatment

“Money Matters” is a brochure from our partners at the Alzheimer’s Association that provides information for caregivers and those living with dementia on how to identify resources to help cover the cost of care and treatment like Medicaid, managed care options, and other financial options. For more information visit the Alzheimer’s Association at www.alz.org

Praise the Lord!
Praise God in His Sanctuary;
Praise Him in His mighty firmament!
Psalm 150: 1

Legal Resources & Tools

When illness or disease strikes, a loved one knowing what legal documents you may need is important. Having these documents accessible and tailored to meet the needs of the family and the person living with dementia or other debilitating diseases can help to save time and reduce stress.

Wills & Power of Attorney

“Legal Plans: Assisting a person with dementia in planning for the future” This is another great resource from our friends at the Alzheimer’s Association that discuss how to navigate legal issues and challenges for someone with dementia or cognitive disability. It provides information about legal ability, consent, and how to identify and secure legal documents needed to help care for your loved ones as they age or their illness progresses. For more information this resources and others visit www.alz.org

Advanced Medical Directives

“Advanced Directives: A Family Caregiver’s Guide” – This guide from United Hospital Fund provides information about advanced directives and legal implications related to the actual medical care and services being provided to your loved one. It helps caregivers plan ahead for long-term and end of life care that may be needed for their family member(s). For more information visit www.nextstepincare.org

Community Support & Services

Caregivers have an unimaginable level of responsibility and they need to have the support of their family, the community, and others to help reduce stress, prevent burnout, and to be successful in caring for their loved ones living with dementia or other debilitating diseases like epilepsy and stroke.

Care Coordination

The Care Coordination Guide created by the United Hospital Fund is a great tool for caregivers. It provide realistic tools and information on how to manage and coordinate the duties and demands of caregiving. For more information and other resources visit www.nextstepincare.org

Eldercare & Other Services

Meal services, transportation, or just someone who can give caregivers a much-needed break is necessary and can be challenging to find if you don't know what's available in your area. The Eldercare Locator is a great tool to find these services and other in your local community to provide assistance to caregivers and their loved ones. Visit them on the web at www.eldercare.gov for more information

Taking Care of Yourself

Taking care of yourself is vital to meet the demands of caring for your loved one. Staying active, eating healthy, and getting rest are all ways to be a good caregiver.

Options to Get Active

Physical activity helps to increase your energy levels and is a great way to also reduce stress. The National Institute on Aging's "Go4Life" guide provides some quick tips on how both caregivers and their loved ones can get active and stay active. To learn more visit www.nia.nih.gov/Go4Life

Assessing Your Own Health

Some studies show that more than 50% of caregivers report a decline in their own health making it harder to care for their loved ones. This Caregiver Health Self-Assessment is a great tool to see where you are and if it's time to see your provider so that you can maintain the health of you and your family. See more videos and resources at www.caregiving.org

PASTORAL RESOURCES: SCRIPTURAL REFERENCE AND LITURGICAL RESOURCE

In moments of dealing with loved ones who are living with Alzheimer's disease, it is key to stand firm on the foundation of your faith during these challenging times. Alzheimer's disease not only affects the patient, but it also affects the family. The emotional, social, and financial costs of caring for someone living with Alzheimer's are insurmountable. Persons who are caregivers also often risk their own health in order to care for the patient at home.

What Can the Faith Community Do?

The faith community can be a source of strength and support for the caregivers and family. Various things can be done in addition to being a spiritual source.

- Meals can be provided, errands can be run, a listening ear can be offered, and intercessory prayer can be rendered continually.
- For the patient, the church's liturgical life, either during the complete liturgy or in the form of isolated hymns or prayers presented in the context of receiving Holy Communion outside of the liturgy, can provide a connection to familiar times and places.
- Repetitive reciting of familiar bible verses like "The Lord's Prayer" or singing familiar hymns can bring the Alzheimer patient to a point of remembrance of their faith and past religious experiences.

The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear?

The Lord is the strength of my life; whom shall I be afraid?

Psalm 27:1

Caring for a loved one with Alzheimer's can be an overwhelming accomplishment.

Please find strength, comfort and inspiration in these uplifting Bible verses for caregivers.

- “Be strong and courageous, and do the work. Do not be afraid or discouraged, for the Lord God, my God, is with you. He will not fail you or forsake you until all the work for the service of the temple of the Lord is finished.” —1 Chronicles 28:20
- “Trust in the Lord with all your heart and lean not on your own understanding; in all your ways acknowledge him and he will make your paths straight.” —Proverbs 3:5–6
- “Create in me a pure heart, O God, and renew a steadfast spirit within me. Do not cast me from your presence or take your Holy Spirit from me. Restore to me the joy of your salvation and grant me a willing spirit, to sustain me.” —Psalm 51:10–12
- “I lift my eyes to the hills—where does my help come from? My help comes from the Lord, the Maker of heaven and earth.” —Psalm 121:1–2
- “I thank Christ Jesus our Lord, who has given me strength, that he considered me faithful, appointing me to his service.” —I Timothy 1:12
- “Come to me, all you who are weary and burdened, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you and learn from me, for I am gentle and humble in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. For my yoke is easy and my burden is light.” —Matthew. 11:28–30
- “Cast all your anxiety on him because he cares for you.” —I Peter 5:7
- “Whatever you did for one of the least of these brothers of mine, you did it for me.” —Matthew 25:40
- “The Lord is good to those whose hope is in Him, to the one who seeks him; it is good to wait quietly for the salvation of the Lord.” —Lamentations 3:25–26
- “Since my youth, O God, you have taught me, and to this day I declare your marvelous deeds. Even when I am old and gray, do not forsake me, O God, till I declare your power to the next generation, Your might to all who are to come.” —Psalm 71:17–18
- “Speak up for those who cannot speak for themselves, for the rights of all who are destitute, speak up and judge fairly; defend the rights of the poor and needy.” —Proverbs 31:8–9
- “Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer.” - Psalm 19:14

Prayers That Comfort

Prayer for Persons Suffering with Alzheimer's Disease

Loving God, Healer and Comforter,

We pray for those who suffer from Alzheimer's. In the days of changing memory and memory loss, be with them. Bless their families that surround them with love and patience. Give them peace, security and safety as within their dwelling places. Even in moments of uncertainty, we ask for your divine guidance and strength. Be the balm in Gilead to heal all of their infirmities.

In Your name we pray,

Amen.

Prayer for Caregivers of People with Alzheimer's Disease

Lord, we pray today the selfless people who care for men and women living with Alzheimer's. You know how difficult the work is, how limited the resources are, and how heavy the burden is. We ask You for strength in their weakest and most vulnerable moments.

Continue to give them assurance that You are wrapping your loving arms around them as they care for those individuals that they have loved for so long who may not be able to reciprocate the same love. Fill their hearts with your goodness and comfort, and their souls with love. Help them find ways to rest and take care of themselves. Give them peace in times of doubt, calm every fear and dry their eyes when tears began to fall.

Remind them that You are the ultimate Father who does all things well.

In Jesus Name,

Amen

Responsive Readings for Worship

Opening Litany: Psalm 130

Healing God, we come together in our brokenness, to call to you in your mercy, to make us whole again.

Wholeness—giving God, listen to our prayers, we pray.

Restoring God, we gather to worship you, even as we hopefully seek to be renewed and restored again.

God, our Quiet-Centre, listen to our prayers this day.

Foundational God, we come to praise and thank you!

In the depths of your Holy Being we find peace and rest.

God – our Beginning and our End, we hope always in you. Amen.

Healing for the World

O God of all creation, you have fearfully and wonderfully fashioned us and breathed your life into us; from the crown of our heads to the soles of our feet, Lord, Reign.

Reign in us, Precious Savior, Reign.

As the Great Physician who healed the woman at the well, you are the same Wonder who finds us in the uttermost parts of the world to heal us—mind, spirit, and body.

Awesome Healer, rescue and deliver, even now.

As the Master Potter and Crafter who takes broken things and mends them back together again, melt us and mold us into the restored children, women, and men that you have destined us to be. Providing Shepherd who charts the path ahead of us, who both precedes and follows us, place your hand of blessing on our heads and shepherd our souls. We find refuge and rest in your care.

We bless your Holy Name and we praise you for being the God who heals not only our bodies but also our souls.

Responsive Prayer for Healing and Wholeness
by Edward Fudge

Leader: Let us name before God those for whom we offer our prayers.

People: [Spontaneously name those for whom you now wish to intercede in prayer.]

Leader: God, Our Healer, your will for all people is health and salvation. We praise you and thank you, O Lord.

People: Son of God, you came that we might have life, and have it more abundantly. We praise you and thank you, O Lord.

Leader: Holy Spirit, you make our bodies the temple of your presence. We praise you and thank you, O Lord.

People: Lord, grant your healing grace to all who are sick, injured, or disabled, that they may be made whole. Hear us, O Lord of life.

Leader: Grant to all who seek your guidance, and to all who are lonely, anxious, or despondent, companionship, knowledge of your will, and an awareness of your presence. Hear us, O Lord of life.

People: Mend broken relationships, and restore those in emotional distress to soundness of mind and serenity of spirit. Hear us, O Lord of life.

Leader: Bless physicians, nurses, and all others who minister to the suffering, granting them wisdom and skill, sympathy, and patience. Hear us, O Lord of life.

People: Give to the dying peace and a holy death, and uphold by the grace and consolation of your Holy Spirit those who are bereaved. Hear us, O Lord of life.

Leader: Restore to wholeness whatever is broken by human sin: in our lives, in our nation, and in the world. Hear us, O Lord of life.

People: You are the Lord who does wonders. You have declared your power among the peoples.

Leader: With you, O Lord, is the well of life, and in your light we see light.

People: Hear us, O Lord of life. Heal us, and make us whole.

Leader: Almighty God, giver of life and health: send your blessing on all who are sick, and on all who minister to them, that all weakness may be vanquished by the triumph of the risen Christ, who lives and reigns forever and ever.

All: Savior of the world, by your cross and precious blood you have redeemed us. Save us and help us, we humbly pray, Amen.

SOCIAL MEDIA AND COMMUNICATIONS RESOURCES FOR MEMORY SUNDAY

Today, social media platforms like Facebook, YouTube and Twitter provide congregations with a powerful tool to disseminate health messages and connect with the community. As a component of Memory Sunday, congregations and others from the community can use social media to do the following:

- Share Alzheimer's and cognitive health information to members of your church and the community.
- Maximize existing networks to facilitate information and resource sharing to support caregivers.
- Connect and engage with your church and the community to raise awareness about Alzheimer's disease and the importance of clinical studies.
- Empower people to make safer and healthier decisions.

The Balm In Gilead has created the following tools to support the communications and social media activities of congregations participating in Memory Sunday:

- ✓ Sample Press Releases (for print and radio outlets)
- ✓ Sample Social Media Post (including hashtags)

About The Balm In Gilead, Inc.

For almost three decades, The Balm In Gilead, Inc. builds and strengthens the capacity of African-American faith communities in the United States and in the United Republic of Tanzania (East Africa) to deliver programs and services that contribute to the elimination of health disparities. The organization develops educational and training programs specifically designed to establish sustainable, integrated systems of public health and faith principles, which helps to improve health outcomes of individuals living in urban, rural and remote communities.

The National Brain Health Center for African Americans and the Healthy Churches 2020 National Campaign are two unique programs of the Balm In Gilead, which delivers science-based, health awareness, understanding and interventions through the tenets of cultural competence to a broad spectrum of African Americans across the United States.

The Balm In Gilead, a not-for-profit, non-governmental organization, has developed an international reputation for providing insightful understanding of religious cultures, values and extraordinary abilities to build strong, trusted partnerships with faith communities throughout the world. By working with national, regional and local faith-based partners, we establish grass-root health delivery systems; and increase the number of individuals knowledgeable to lead in areas of health promotion, disease prevention, screening, and disease management.

The Balm In Gilead acknowledges the University of Kentucky, Sanders-Brown Center on Aging as the developers of the original Memory Sunday, as a local initiative in the State of Kentucky.

The Sanders-Brown Center on Aging (SBCoA) was established in 1985, and received funding as one of the original 10 National Institutes of health Alzheimer's Disease Centers. Internationally acclaimed, the SBCoA is recognized for its contributions to the fight against brain diseases that are associate with aging.

As a global pioneer in Alzheimer's disease research, the Center has over thirty years of published work and 700 study volunteers (some with the disease and some without). These individuals are studied over time and plan to donate their brains upon death. The cutting-edge research focuses on identifying problems as early as possible, before memory loss develops, so that Alzheimer's disease can be prevented or delayed.

The ultimate goal of the Center on Aging is to catalyze innovative and outstanding brain research while ensuring a more rapid rate of progress toward new therapies to delay or prevent age-related brain diseases like Alzheimer's disease, so that our volunteers, patients and caregivers become beneficiaries of our advances in knowledge.
